The liability for missing or not acting upon important information conveyed via campus email rests with the student.

Academic Integrity:
The academic community is based on honesty, integrity, and fair play. It is expected that all students, as members of the college community, adhere to the highest levels of academic integrity. Dishonesty in the classroom and with assignments, quizzes, and exams is a serious offense and is subject to disciplinary action by the instructor and college administration. For more information, please refer to the Student Handbook.

● Students are responsible for submitting their own work. Violations of academic principles such as cheating, plagiarism, and other academic improprieties will be handled according to the guidelines outlined in the Student Handbook. "Faculty members have the prerogative of determining the penalty for prohibited academic conduct in their classes. Faculty members may fail the student for the particular assignment, test, or course involved, or they may recommend that the student drop the course in question, or these penalties may be varied with the gravity of the offense and the circumstances of the particular case."

● Students must not cooperate on oral or written exams or quizzes or work collaboratively on other assignments unless authorized by the instructor.
● Students will hand in assignments and assessments on the due date specified.
● Completion of the assigned readings is imperative to your professional development.
● Students are expected to attend class and participate in class discussions. Attendance and participation may be factored into your final grade. The student is responsible for the information presented in class whether they are in attendance or not.

If you have a disability for which you are or may be requesting an accommodation, you are encouraged to contact your instructor and Jackie Migler in Disability Support Services as early as possible in the beginning of the semester.
